Court halts Greenwood tire influx

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Oxford County Superior Court has ordered a halt to tires coming into the Gordon tire facility in Greenwood.

A temporary restraining order was placed on Peter and Susan Gordon's facility Monday. The order was requested by the Maine Department of Environmental Protection (DEP).

The facility received a DEP license in 1991 to accept and dispose of tires. It has been repeatedly cited for exceeding the number of tires which may be stored on the property. DEP estimated last fall that there were 1.7 million tires in seven storage cells on the site. Town officials have worried that the tires are a fire threat.

The Gordons have also been given a time line to comply with several other demands: construct mineral strip buffers around and between the tire storage cells within 10 days of the order; construct a 60,000-gallon and 1.5 million-gallon fire pond within 30 days; place a total of 600 cubic yards of sand around each cell within 45 days; and reduce the height of all cells to 20 feet within 60 days.

Telstar Class of '95 graduates

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Telstar High School Class of 1995 marched, sang, and spoke before a gymnasium filled with friends and relatives at Commencement Exercises Friday night.

"Follow your dreams, follow them, no matter how silly they seem," urged an Angela Szentek told her 54 classmates.

"Follow your heart, for no advice could be more honest."

"Be happy with yourself, and with others. Find that path, find yourself, find that dream, and be happy," she said.

Salutatorian Kevin Mullen asked the graduates to open up new dimensions for themselves: "Look beyond the quick, the easy, and the desirable solutions. In your hearts, know you want to do better."

Third honors speaker Elise Bennett expressed pride in her class' accomplishments in their four years at Telstar.

"The Class of 1995 has made something happen at Telstar High School and in the community. Our achievements in academics, in athletics, in creative pursuits, and in our community contributions have left an impression on this school, on this community, and on our family and friends. We have made something happen here," Bennett said.

SAD44 School Board member Raymond Harrington told the graduates they would be entering a world that is not all black and white, but that "takes on shades of gray." He encouraged them to hold onto three vital principles of life -- faith, hope, and charity.

The graduates sang the choral selection "The River" by Garth Brooks, and heard reflections from class members Koral Smith and Naomi Fox. The farewell was given by Jill Olson.

Principal Ted Davis presented diplomas, as the graduates were congratulated by Harrington and Supt. Ronald Jenkins. Each graduate slipped Davis some change, continuing a tradition of giving him something as a "parting gift."

Davis announced that over $125,000 in scholarship money had been awarded to the Class of 1995.

SAD44 budget

Petition seeks town-by-town approval

By ALISON ALOISIO

SAD44 voters may be deciding the school budget by referendum-style vote in the future.

Andover selectman Joseph Madigan is coordinating a petition drive throughout the district to force an annual budget referendum in each town. Currently a district meeting format is used.

A number of districts statewide have gone to the referendum.

Madigan said Friday he has collected more than enough signatures on a petition from Andover. He said each town would have to submit such a petition to the school district, with a number of signatures equal to 10 percent of voters voting in the last gubernatorial election.

"The school budgets are killing the property taxes here and in every town. People here feel they have no say because they have to go to Bethel (for the district meeting)," Madigan said.

Madigan said he has recruited Ronny Wells, also of Andover, to help with the drive in other towns. He said he would like to see the referendum used this year, if possible.

Madigan has also contacted Greenwood selectwoman Marie Bartlett, who has been an outspoken opponent in the past of the growth in school budgets.

Bartlett said Friday she planned to discuss the petition with fellow selectmen at last night's meeting, and if they did not object, would place petitions around town and look for volunteers to go door-to-door.

"I've always strongly supported the budget being voted on by each member municipality," she said.

Bartlett said she thought some people were intimidated by the open district meeting, and would participate more in a referendum vote. She added it would also give school officials a "better handle" on where people stood on the budget.

District meetings have traditionally been poorly attended, with most of the turnout made up of SAD44 employees.

Eminent domain plan blasted

By MICHAEL DANIELS

They weren't having any of it. "It's an abuse of power and I object," said John Laban -- summing up the feelings of the nearly 200 area residents who showed up in the Telstar auditorium Monday evening to tell the Maine Department of Transportation what they thought of the possibility the state would use its power of eminent domain to take the land necessary for the Bethel Station Parkway.

Laban's comments were roundly applauded, as were those of other speakers opposed to eminent domain.

Don Feeney claimed "The only time eminent domain is justified is in the case of national security or where there is a danger to the public."

Others questioned whether the developers had negotiated in good faith with the current property owners. "Why should the state come in to do their negotiations for them," asked David Luxton.

That skepticism was heightened when Alden Small, MDOT deputy commissioner for highways, read into the record a letter from property owner Jim Murphy.

In the letter Murphy claimed he and his wife supported the project and had been more than willing to sell.

They even paid off an earlier mortgage in order to speed things up, he said, and were willing to reduce the size of the parcel in order to accommodate the cash-flow problems of the project.

But the developers failed to honor a 1993 contract and "made no attempt to communicate" after a January 1995 closing date passed without action.

Another property owner, Bob Jamison of Oxford West Telephone Company, said his company "had tried our best to make a deal, but still haven't made it."

"I don't care if it's half an acre or 20 acres, they're not going to take it," Jamison promised.

Some defenders

Not everyone at Monday's meeting was opposed to the use of eminent domain. A handful of project supporters defended the prospect as a necessary evil.

Rhea Gibbs termed the prices being asked for the parcels "outlandish."

Gwyneth Bohr said the current location of Cross Street was dangerous, and she asked how much actual property would be taken. (Less than an acre, the

And may not be necessary

Agreements may now be in place that will make an eminent domain taking unnecessary.

Les Otten, one of the three general partners in the Bethel Station development, told Monday evening's meeting that the developers had "verbal commitments" from all but one of the landowners involved.

"All the landowners with the exception of the telephone company have agreed to the original agreements that were on the table," he said.

The agreement with one of the landowners, the Lowell brothers, followed day-long negotiations Monday in the Bethel Town Office. The negotiations were facilitated by Bethel selectmen Bob Chadbourn and Dutch Dresser.

Agreement with James Murphy, who lives in Connecticut, came about as the result of a phone call from Otten Monday evening, the developer told the audience.

Otten said he was pleased with the agreements. "Today was an extraordinary day," he said. "The developer finds himself in a very different position tonight at 9 (o'clock) than at 9 in the morning."

Rebels battle for Western Maine title

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Telstar Rebels baseball team travels to St. Joseph's College in Windham tonight to face top-seeded Yarmouth High School in the Western Class C Championship game.

The second-seeded Rebels (14-2) earned the trip Saturday by beating Jay High School 3-1, in a game that lasted only an hour and 20 minutes.

The quickness with which the Rebels dispatched the Tigers was largely due to excellent defense and the pitching of Clint Myers, who allowed six singles over seven innings and walked just one.

Jay got its sole run in the second inning. Myers walked Jay's Alex Wilbur, who stole second and scored on a hit by Jamie Knight.

Telstar answered in the bottom of the second with two of their three runs. Adam Newell got on with a single against Jay pitcher Jeremy Bryant, and Wade Luxton followed with a double.

A passed ball with Ken Mason up allowed Newell to score from third, while Luxton took third on the same play. Mason then walked.

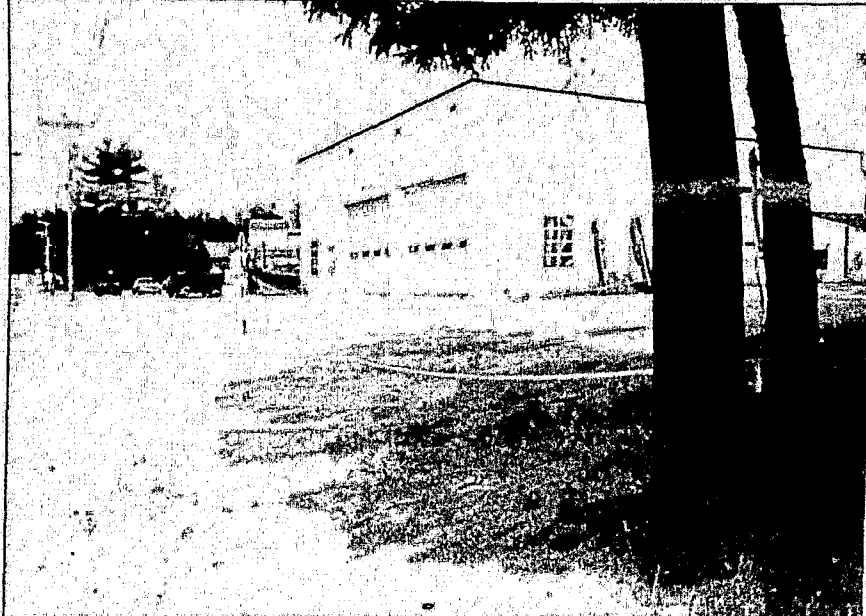

Then, with Josh Adams up, another passed ball brought Luxton home with the second run. Adams followed with a double, but the Rebels were unable to take advantage, as the next three batters were retired in order.

In the top of the third, Jay's Jason LeClere was thrown out at second trying to stretch a single to left into a double. Shortstop Tim Remington relayed a throw from leftfielder Tony Buker to second baseman Wade Luxton, who made the tag.

Telstar scored its third run in the bottom of the fourth. Ken Mason led off with a walk, and moved to second on a passed ball. Josh Adams then singled to left, moving Mason to third. Jason Berry drove in Mason with a ground ball to second, with Adams thrown out on a fielder's choice.

Jay looked like they might rally in the sixth inning, when Jeff Viennau led off with a ground ball single up the middle. But with a hit-and-run play on, Telstar right fielder Cory Koch chased down a

LET'S GO TO THE TAPE—After conducting his own research, James Stone is convinced that his mother's property on Cross Street is larger than the current property lines suggest. Stone strung surveyor's tape to stake his claims on land occupied by Western Maine Supply Company and the town of Bethel. He has threatened to block the side doors of the town garage, according to town manager Madeleine Henley, and he is now seeking a meeting with the town selectmen. Henley said Stone's proposed property lines differ from those arrived at independently by surveyors Dana Douglass and Gary Inman. "And the professionals are standing by their judgments," she said. Bethel Town Meeting is tonight at CPS

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel's annual Town Meeting will have a new setting this year -- the Crescent Park School gymnasium. The new venue is brighter and more handicapped accessible than the Telstar auditorium, where Town Meetings have been held in recent years.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. tonight (Wednesday).

Voters will be asked to approve a municipal budget of $1,378,818, up 12 percent from this year's budget. (That figure does not include the town's SAD44 allocation, which will not be known until next month.)

The budget increase is accounted for largely by investments recommended by the town Capital Improvement Committee. These include road work ($85,000), debt service ($70,000), and the purchase of a number of pieces of equipment: including a backhoe ($45,000), new police cruiser ($20,000), new generation defibrillator ($10,000), and and tag-along sweeper ($9,000).

The CIP Committee is recommending that the town totally draw down its designated reserve accounts in order to pay for the capital expenses.

The CIP recommendations have been reviewed and approved by the Board of Selectmen and the town's Budget Committee.

Other increases in this year's proposed budget include a part-time assistant for the town manager ($13,000), filling the vacant highway department position ($24,500), increased solid waste management expenses (up $19,000), highway department contracted services (up $3,400), overall ambulance expenses (up $5,220), recreational expenses (up $5,150), tree trimming (up $6,021), and employee pay raises ($10,000, to cover raises of from 0 to 5 percent).

The social-service agency account will go down by $9,824 this year, if voters go along with the recom-

Airport, waste agreements

BETHEL--Selectmen last week approved, pending final review by the town's attorney, a lease agreement with Bethel Aviation, Inc., for use of facilities off the Northwest Bethel Road. The agreement is for five years, with two renewal options of five years each. Selectmen also reviewed a proposed ordinance to create an airport authority to oversee the airfield, and a completed draft was sent to the attorney. Also at last week's meeting, selectmen agreed to extend a waste-hauling contract with D&E Sanitation for another six months, and awarded Doug Bennett and Son a contract for sludge transportation from the town's waste-water treatment facility to the sludge site on Route 2.

Septic system to be installed

WOODSTOCK--A long-standing dispute over the installation of a septic system may be near resolution. Town manager Vern Maxfield said last week that Community Concepts, Inc., of South Paris is arranging for a septic system to be installed within 30 days at the home of Stanley Pratt on the Dudley Road. Pratt has been using a holding tank since late last year in place of a septic system. Selectmen allowed the use of the tank as a temporary measure, giving Pratt until June 1 to install a septic system. Maxfield said selectmen agreed last week to give Pratt the extra 30 days.

Record number of Trek bikers

AUGUSTA--A record number of over 1,400 registrations have been received for the eleventh annual bicycle ride, "Trek Across Maine -- Sunday River to the Sea" on June 16-18. The Trek is the largest three-day ride in the Northeast, and the largest single fundraiser for the American Lung Association of Maine. Participants will come from sixteen different states and as far away as Utah. "With this number of cyclists, we're telling both cyclists and motorists to use caution while on the road," said Trek manager Allyson Evans. "Motorists should seek alternate routes. When there are this many cyclists, it slows down traffic." Cyclists will be riding a total of 180 miles, with overnight stops at the University of Maine at Farmington, Colby College, and a finish line celebration at the Samoset Resort.

Districts lose funding case

PORTLAND--The Maine Supreme Court last week rejected arguments from more than 80 school districts that they were shortchanged by state budget cuts. The districts filed a suit in 1992, claiming changes in the funding formula hindered equal opportunity education for all Maine students. The attorney general's office countered there was no proof students received inadequate education because of the cuts. The Supreme Court ruled the state Constitution doesn't establish specific mechanisms for funding, and it is the legislature's responsibility to deal with the issue. The legislature is currently studying new funding formula options.

Showers hazardous?

ORONO--People taking showers in homes that draw water from wells may be exposing themselves to high levels of radon, according to a UMO physics professor. Radon is considered the second most significant cause of lung cancer in the U.S., after smoking. Prof. George Bernhardt said researchers found about 75 percent of radon in shower water is released into the air. "What you've done is create a very high level of radon gas in a closed environment, and you've been breathing it for 20 minutes," said Bernhardt. The Environmental Protection Agency's health standard in homes for radon is 4 picocuries per liter of air, averaged over a year. The study found increases of 2 to 114 picocuries per liter during a 15-minute shower. Actual exposures depend on factors including whether a fan is operating during the shower, and water temperature.

Watch out for moose

OLD TOWN--A fatal accident on Interstate 95 recently triggered a warning from game wardens to motorists to be wary of moose wandering onto roadways. Frederick Donovan, 75, of Patten was killed when his vehicle hit a moose, veered into the median strip and crashed into some trees. Both Donovan and the moose were killed instantly. During this time of year black flies and other insects drive moose and deer out of the woods into open areas in search of relief. The problem of the wandering moose has been growing in recent years, along with the population. There are an estimated 25,000 to 30,000 moose in the state.

Check ozone level by Internet

AUGUSTA--The state's air quality forecasts are available to anyone with a telephone or access to the Internet during summer ozone season. The information is on the Department of Environmental Protection's "Home Page", at the address <http://www.state.me.us/mecodephone.htm>. DEP also has a toll-free "ozone hotline" at 800-223-1196.

Biker finds missing woman

HOPKINTON, N.H.--If Betty Desmarais had not missed a turn while mountain biking, she would not have stumbled upon an elderly woman who had been missing four days. Desmarais discovered Katherine Decato Sunday, about 50 feet from her 1984 Ford Tempo. The car had been driven about one and a quarter miles up a logging trail. Decato, 79, had been reported missing by relatives Thursday. Desmarais pedaled to the nearest house to call for help. Decato, who has diabetes and a heart condition, was in stable condition at Concord Hospital. She had apparently been without medication during the ordeal.

More SAD44 raises

BETHEL--SAD44 supervisors and central office staff will receive a 3.3 percent raise for next year. The School Board voted the raises Monday, along with a $500 benefit increase, for seven employees. The staff members include Bernie Rice, building and grounds supervisor ($24,270); Flossie Kendzierski, food services supervisor ($21,700); Cynthia Moxcey, computer operator ($22,200); Robin Gundersen, administrative assistant ($24,075); and Bruce Powell, business manager ($40,490). Administrative assistant Wendy Hanscom also received the same raise. Hanscom is a part-time, hourly employee.

From the Bethel Police log:

Van was a friendly

On June 8 at 8:44 p.m. a Northwest Bethel Road resident reported a large Ryder moving van at her neighbor's residence. Though the caller did not know her neighbors, she felt it was an odd time for them to be moving. On arrival police found it was the owner moving furniture up from his home in Massachusetts. The subject was grateful for the attention and watchful eye of his neighbor.

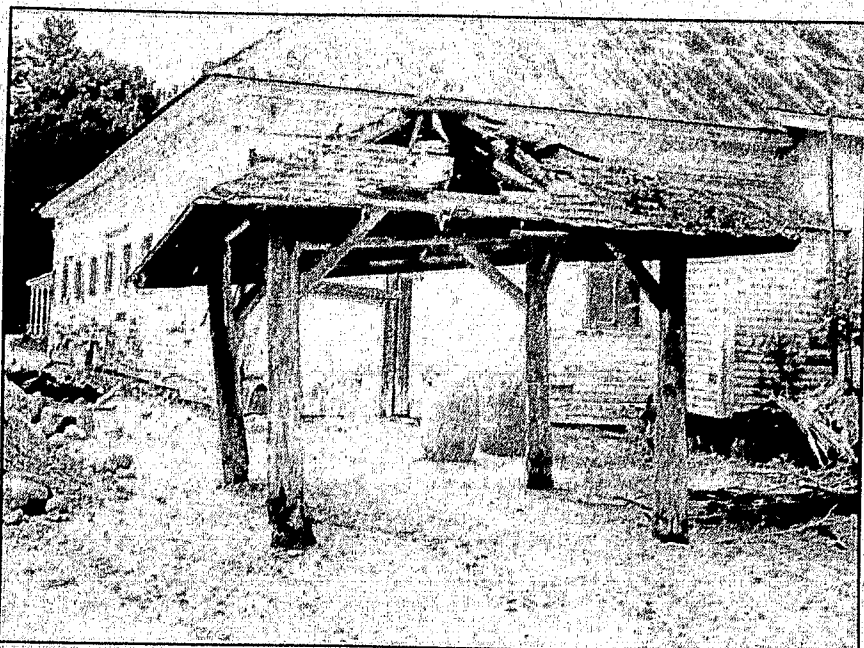

Friday, June 9

At 3 p.m. a Vernon Street resident reported there were several Telstar High School students harassing him. He said it was because of an incident at school. He requested that police speak to the students and ask that they leave him alone. Police told the subjects if any further complaints were received, paperwork for juvenile intake for harassment charges would be completed.

Sunday, June 11

At 9:30 p.m. Police received a report that a Gilead resident had collapsed and was having trouble breathing outside the Big Apple. On arrival police determined the subject was breathing, but with great difficulty. Bethel Rescue arrived and transported the subject to Stephens Memorial Hospital.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity.

MINERAL SPRING RENOVATION--Boy Scout Matt Ryerson of South Woodstock is taking on the renovation of Woodstock's mineral spring as a community service project. Ryerson will coordinate fundraising and construction of a new canopy and bench for the spring, located behind the Whitman Memorial Library. He plans to raise about $400 for materials through activities such as bake sales and car washes. Fellow scouts from Troop 565 in Bethel will help out, while the town of Woodstock will donate crushed rock for the ground around the spring. Ryerson is awaiting approval from the Boy Scouts' district council and national board for the project, which he is undertaking as part of the requirements to earn the rank of Eagle Scout. He hopes to get underway in about a month. Little historical information is available on the spring. Records at the Woodstock Historical Society read, "The water from the spring is colored and smells but the taste is delicious." The spring was willed to the town by Lena Felt in 1938. An old postcard of the site says many people visited it for "the medicinal value of the clear sparkling water." Here, the remains of the original wooden structure that stood over the spring sit behind the old town garage. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

MAHOOSUC ARTS TO MEET

On Sunday, June 25, the Mahoosuc Arts Council will hold its Annual Meeting at the Muriel Park Mason house on Church Street, Bethel, according to executive director Vicki Rackliffe. There will be a social gathering at 7 p.m. followed by the meeting at 7:30.

Bicentennial Committee notes:

By JUNE ABBOTT

The Bethel Bicentennial Committee met on Thursday evening, May 23. The Committee extended congratulations and gratitude to chairpersons: Danna Nickerson and Ruth Grover for their successful show of Bethel's Belles and Brides. It was an enjoyable afternoon for those in attendance, as well as generating $800 for the Bicentennial treasury.

The EdGroup is preparing the first of a series of exhibits and other informative activities: 200 years of Bethel Art and Artists; Visual links of community past and present. This will be held at the Owen Art Gallery of Gould Academy starting Sept. 8. The committee would like to have this be a real celebration of the art about Bethel and its artists over its 200 years of existence. The committee has little idea about the availability of representative works of earlier generations...either works which represent an artist or the Bethel scene of a period. The group is especially interested in information about any work of Faye Taylor, Elizabeth Anderson, Scotty Bowhay, and Mary Shaw. Any knowledge of these artists or other possible works that should be included in this exhibit would be gratefully received by the committee.

Also in September the first of approximately 15 topical exhibits is scheduled: Transportation and Mail. The committee is in need of any information about ancestors involved in mail service anywhere in the town of Bethel, as well as information about ferries, stages, Pony Express, et al. Nan Timberlake can be contacted at 824-2234.

The next Bicentennial Committee meeting will be Thursday, June 15 at 7 p.m. at Stan Howe's home, 18 Broad St. Everyone is welcome.

fly ball by Carl Badeau, then quickly threw to first to catch Vienneau trying to get back, for a double play. Although Jay's Aaron St. Pierre followed with a single, Myers was able to strike out Alex Wilbur to end the inning.

After Telstar batters were retired in order in the sixth, Jay came up with their last chance to get back in the game.

The first two batters struck out and grounded out, Willie Gerrish then singled to left, bringing up Jason LeClerc. Myers got LeClerc to pop up to catcher Peter Miserocchi to end the game.

"They played great baseball," coach Bob Remington said of his team after the game.

He praised the Rebels' defense. "They communicated well in defense, with the double play, when they (Jay) tried to turn a single into a double," he said. "A Clint -- he can pitch."

Remington said his biggest worry in facing Jay was their ability to get on base and steal.

"But you can't steal if you don't get on," he said.

Remington said Telstar's ability to get the early lead in the second inning was important.

"And the third run allowed the defense to breathe," he said.

The Rebels' hits totaled five, with Josh Adams accounting for two of them.

Tonight's game starts at 7 p.m.

Girls go down fighting

The Telstar softball team ended their year with a 3-2 playoff loss to undefeated St. Dom's of Lewiston.

In a very well-played game by both teams, the Saints were able to push across three runs, the last on a sacrifice fly in the sixth inning, to edge the Rebels.

Angie Lovejoy, Telstar's senior hurler, limited the Lewiston team to only three hits. The rest of the defense was equally up to the task, playing a solid game.

M.J. Learned set the tone early on, when she made a very good shoestring catch in right field. Catcher Becky Chandler kept the Saints at bay most of the game, including throwing out the St. Dom's speedy centerfielder in an attempt to steal of second in the decisive sixth inning. The Rebels outthit the Saints 8-3 with Learned contributing two hits.

Dani Littlehale an RBI double, and Angie Lovejoy an RBI single.

Beth Howe, Amy Patten, and Laura Seames also hit safely.

But the Rebels couldn't get the timely hitting when needed.

"We did everything but outscore them," coach Jim Lunney told his team. "The Saints made no mistakes and deserved the victory."

"I'm very proud of this year's team and the effort they put forth. Well done, ladies."

SAD44 Supt. Ron Jenkins does not agree that a referendum would be a better barometer of voter opinion.

"It's certainly a decision the citizens have to make, but I think they have less input and opportunity to make changes to the budget in that setting. They have less control, because they can't amend from the floor. There's only one thing to vote on, and it either passes, or it doesn't pass. The problem is you don't get a clear message out of it. There's no opportunity to hear debate and discussion," he said Friday.

Jenkins also said he doesn't think there is reason for citizens to feel intimidated at the budget meetings. He said the opportunity to call for a secret ballot would provide protection for those uncomfortable with a public vote.

"They can listen quietly to the discussion and then go vote as they wish," he said.

It won't be possible to have the referendum for this year's vote. According to state law, if district towns submit petitions to the School Board, the towns would then have to vote on the change.

According to Title 20A MRSA, Section 1305, an article would be put on the ballot "for the next statewide election occurring at least 45 days after the date on which the municipal officers receive the notice (from the board)."

Yesterday is a misty dream, a white cloud, a smile or a sigh. June is here and it's a time of settling down to the business at hand. That is what I'm trying to do. Yesterday, I worked hours outside trimming grass and flowers. June is a pause to catch up, before July pushes seedling, podding and fruiting.

June, this year, also has something I dislike very much, ticks. I have had four on me and they don't look like the wood ticks I have always known over other years, and those were a couple in a season.

Now the days are alive with sound, the sound of insects and bird songs. There is the wren just outside the window bursting with song at 5 a.m. June brings the flash of the oriole's wing and his call, "I'm up here, I'm up here," but best of all is the wood thrush at evening, nothing more lively.

How nice to step out at night when the sky is clear and filled with stars, stars that lure man's mind to the immensity of the universe.

Tomorrow is a rainbow arch never reached, just a hope. But today is sunlight or moonlight, stars or storm. Today is what we create.

I'm sorry I missed last week's column, but time caught up with me.

Robert came from Windsor to join us at the farm on the Sunday of June 4. David and Mary came, but Sally's father was ill so she went to see him.

The Durgin boys have been mowing my lawns this year. What nice work they do.

We are sorry that Mr. Chojnacki was taken by ambulance to Stephens Hospital this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Cogswell, Freeport, visited Rena Curtis over last weekend.

Ann Holt entertained her college friend, Nancy Hutton, her aunt from Portland, Dot Betts, Leland Betts, Leonas and Fay Holt and me for supper on June 3 at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Inman were at Cathedral Pines over Memorial weekend.

Howdy, folks. This is Tuesday, the 6th of June and a real nice morning. I'll get my news typed up as I have a lot of outside work to do on nice days.

Last Monday, Peggy and I attended the West Paris Memorial Day activities. Due to the bad weather they were held in the Grange Hall and were quite well attended. Bertha Benoit organized the activities and had done a right good job. Music was furnished by the Oxford Hills High School Band. We especially enjoyed the medley of songs honoring members of the different armed services.

Our callers Monday afternoon were Myrna and Bernard White from Auburn for an afternoon visit, and Richard Felt of Bryant Pond called in the evening. Between visitors we went to Wal-Mart. My old electric razor had decided not to mow whiskers anymore, so I had to buy one that would.

Wednesday was another nice day and Myrna and Whitey came up so that Whitey could mow the lawns. The lady who did the estimating for repairing our mobile home after the pine tree came down onto it called on us to see if we had someone else repair it. We hadn't and she said they would be free to do it this week, but we haven't seen the whites of their eyes yet.

Peggy and I attended West Paris Grange last Thursday evening. Their regular master was absent, but we had a good meeting and program. Sherry Harriman, chief junior deputy and junior director, was present as this was Junior Grange Night. The next meeting will be election of officers.

Friday found us going to Shop 'n Save for our weekly groceries. My old watch had gotten tired and refused to keep time, so we stopped at Hutchin's the Jeweler and a new battery gave the old watch some new life.

In the evening we attended Musical Night at Oxford Grange. They had a real good attendance to enjoy the music. Their regular steward was absent and I was asked to fill that office for the evening.

Saturday afternoon, our nephew, David Yates, cut down another large pine tree in back of our mobile home.

Saturday evening, Peggy and I picked up Mary Smith and all attended the Woodstock High School Alumni Banquet at the Jackson-Silver American Legion Hall in Locke Mills. It rained very hard in the early evening, but there was a good attendance as they used 148 supper tickets. There were three from Peggy's class present and three from my class. It was decided to hold the banquet in the same place next year.

June 17 will be the regular dance by West Paris Grange at their hall, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra.

FIRST-TIME HOME LOANS

The Maine State Housing Authority has reduced interest rates on its popular first-time homebuyer mortgages to 7.25 percent, the lowest rate this year.

"The change will allow more Maine people to take advantage of our program and become homeowners," said MSHA Homeownership Director Debra King. "The lower interest rate reduces the cost of homeownership and makes it affordable for more Maine people."

The agency also increased the maximum home prices and incomes for eligible borrowers, consistent with limits allowed by federal regulations. The number of lenders participating in the program also has increased.

"The higher income limits make more people eligible, and the higher home price limits mean more homes in the state are eligible to be purchased with a MSHA loan. With more lenders than ever in the program, people throughout Maine have easy access to a lender that can take their application for a MSHA loan," Ms. King said.

Recent trends indicate a slow-down in the sale of existing homes. MSHA hopes its program will help revitalize this important economic market as well as provide more opportunities for first-time homebuyers.

Over the past two years the program has helped nearly 3,000 Maine families purchase their first home.

The new income limits for most counties are $34,000 for one- and two-person families and $39,000 for families of three or more.

Counties with higher income limits and the maximums for one- two person families and families of three or more are: Lincoln County ($35,000 and $40,000); Kennebec County ($36,000 and $41,000); Cumberland and Sagadahoc counties ($37,000 and $42,000); and York County ($39,000 and $45,000).

The maximum price under the program for existing homes in most counties is $94,000. The home price limits are higher in Knox and Cumberland counties ($96,000), York and Hancock counties ($99,000), and Lincoln County ($125,000). Higher home prices are allowed for new homes and owner occupied two-to-four-unit homes.

The home price and income limits are established by federal regulation and are based on the median price and income in the state or county. MSHA conducts an annual survey of home prices and incomes in the state to determine the medians.

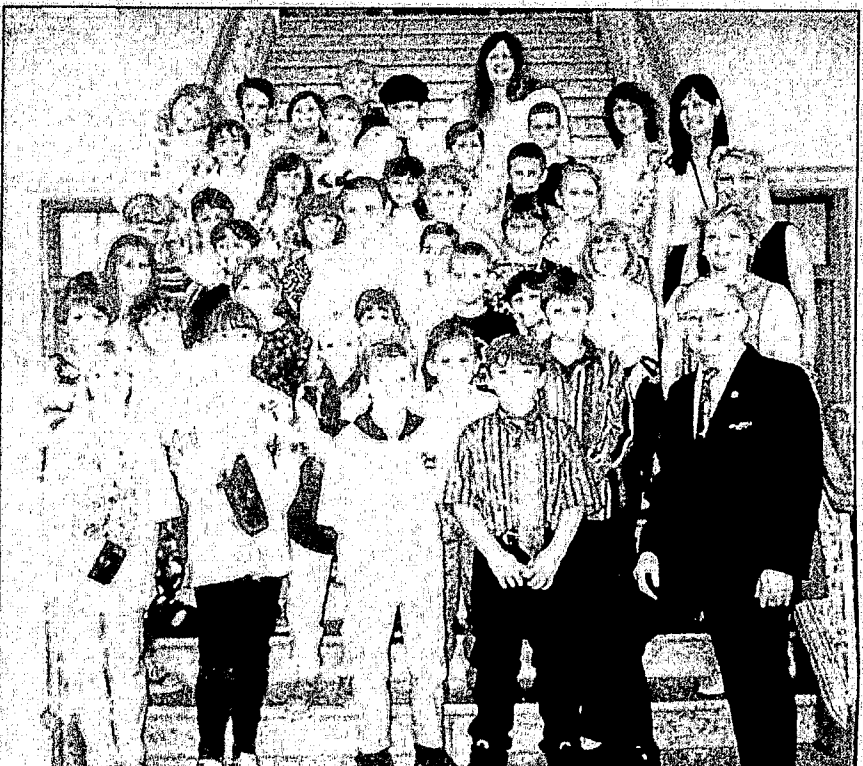

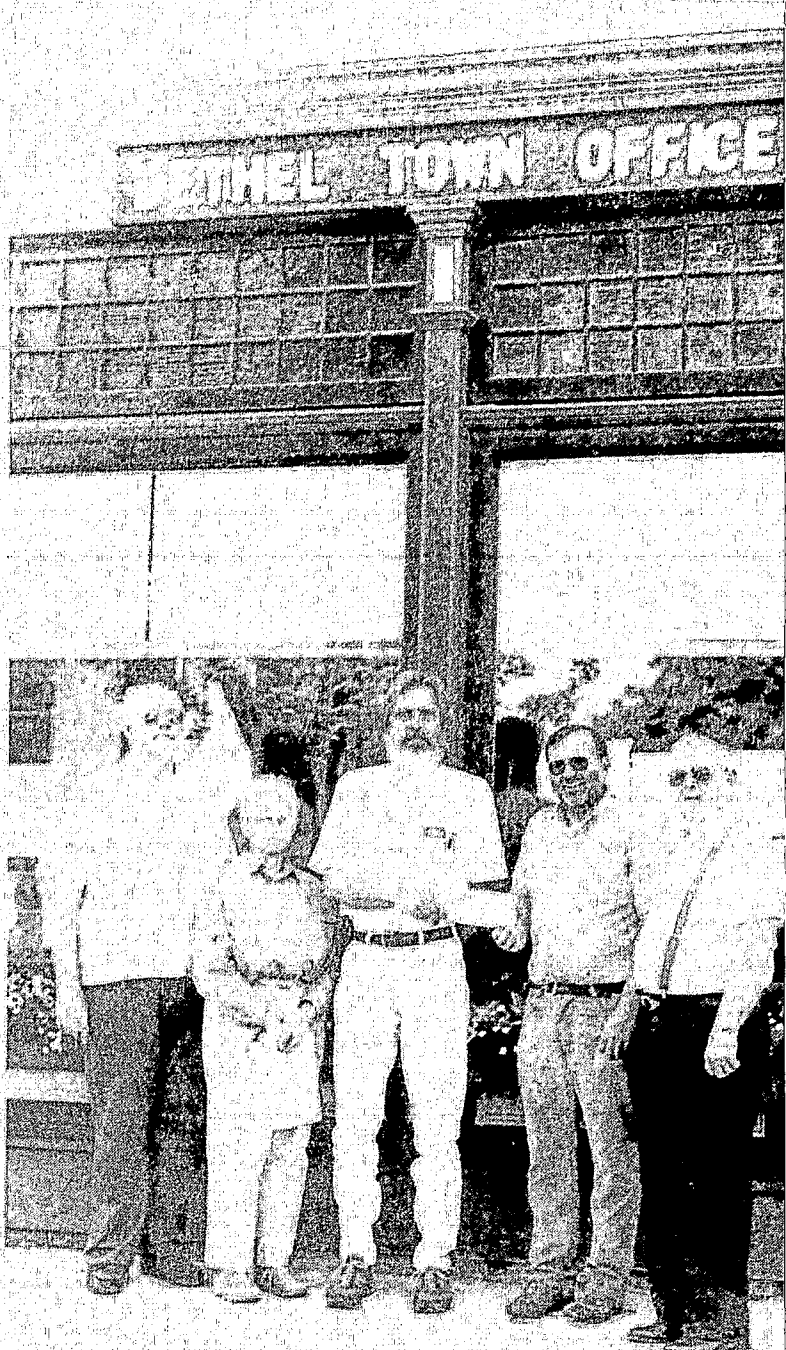

Money for the MSHA mortgages comes from a $50 million bond sale the agency held earlier this year. The mortgage revenue bonds the agency uses are repaid by the mortgagees made with the bond proceeds, not taxpayer dollars. The bonds do not pledge the credit of the state, only of the housing authority.

The lower interest rate is achieved partially because the bonds are tax exempt, and partially because MSHA uses state HOME funds to reduce the rate. The state HOME fund is financed by revenue from the state's real estate transfer tax.

LOGO WINNER

Don Katlin was the winner of the Bethel Bicentennial Committee's logo contest. The design will serve as the official logo of both the bicentennial celebration and the town. Here, Bicentennial Committee chairman Stan Howe presents the $100 prize to Katlin. Also pictured, from left, Bicentennial Committee treasurer John Head, secretary Nan Timberlake, and selectman Arthur Gilbert.

BARTH GREETES STUDENTS—Third-graders from the Crescent Park School were recent visitors to the State House in Augusta. They were welcomed by Representative Al Barth, R-Bethel. They were accompanied by their teacher and several parent volunteers.

GOULD SUMMER SCHOOL

Gould Academy Summer School is now accepting student applications for its 15th session of accelerated education. Courses available include biology, chemistry, physics, writing, Internet tools and navigation, algebra, geometry, pre-calculus, as well as numerous arts programs.

According to Summer School Director of Admissions Kimberly A. Caldwell, the six-week program provides students entering grades nine through 12 the luxury of focusing their attention on one or two academic subjects while enjoying many cultural and recreational opportunities. "In their major course, students cover a year's worth of material in six weeks," said Caldwell. "This program is designed as an enrichment program for motivated students."

The residential study program assists students in moving ahead in their education. "Although the rules vary from district to district, most high schools accept credits earned during summer school," added Caldwell.

Afternoons are dedicated to summer recreational activities, including hiking and canoeing. The school often takes students to Portland and Boston to attend concerts and visit museums. This summer's session begins June 25. Students interested in a fun, challenging, accelerated educational opportunity may contact Kimberly A. Caldwell at 824-7777.

REGIONAL SURVEY

One-thousand surveys have been mailed to individuals picked at random in the towns served by the Western Regional Council on Alcoholism for the Regional Partnership--Andover, Bethel, Greenwood, Newry, Woodstock, Gilead, Upton, Albany, Mason and Milton. The survey was developed by the Regional Partnership and Dr. Julian Mingus, Research Associate for the Partnership.

It is being used to solicit community input, opinions, and perceptions about local alcohol, tobacco and other drug use and abuse. According to Brendon Bass, regional partnership chairperson, "Results of the survey will be used to plan, develop and implement substance abuse prevention and education programs in the greater Bethel area. The Partnership is a coalition of volunteer groups concerned about the well-being of our communities. I encourage all participants to respond to this survey."

The survey was first administered in the community in August of 1993. The results obtained from the survey were used to develop an action plan based on the needs identified in the profile. The Partnership believes that any action plan needs to be based on what is actually happening, rather than on what someone thinks is happening.

Residents who receive a survey are requested to fill it out and return it soon. For further information, call Brian Stowell, area intervention coordinator, at 836-24

FINNISH HERITAGE SOCIETY

The last meeting of the season of the Finnish American Heritage Society of Maine will be held at 2 p.m., June 18, at the Heritage Center, West Paris.

The program, slides and talk on the Lotta Svärd, will be presented by Waino Ray of Gorham. The Lotta Svärd was the women's auxiliary to the Finnish Army during the Winter War with the Soviet Union, 1939-40. This auxiliary was of great service, running field kitchens, laundry, giving first aid, delivering supplies, mail and courier service right at the front lines. Their importance was shown by the fact that in the peace terms, the Soviets demanded the abolishment of the organization, never to be formed again.

The public is invited to attend. A coffee social will follow, and a door prize drawn.

GREENWOOD HISTORICAL

The regular meeting of the Greenwood Historical Society was held at the society building on Wednesday evening, June 7, with Joan Kimball presiding. There were 14 members and three guests present. It was decided at this meeting that those members who are participating in the cleaning job at the Town Hall to be there at 10 on June 21 and bring a lunch with them.

Members voted to have Matthew Newell mow the lawn this summer.

Peter Rogers of Nanticoke, Conn. has become a new member of the society.

The society building will be open through July and August on Saturday afternoons from 1-4. On July 1 Margaret and Blaine Mills will be there, on July 8 Joyce and Ellsworth Hathaway, and on July 15 Joan and Jeannette Kimball will be in attendance. Others will be named after the next meeting.

Following the meeting, Marie Bartlett gave an informative talk on recycling, there have been several changes in recycling. Barbara Murphy from the Co-op Extension Service in South Paris was also present and talked on composting.

Refreshments consisted of a tasty party. Joyce Hathaway has volunteered to furnish the refreshments for the July meeting.

At the July meeting Blaine Mills will show slides taken by Nellie Nicholson, a former summer resident on Round Pond. Miss Nicholson is now a resident at the Marshwood Nursing Home in Lewiston.

From the Bethel Area

Health Center

Infants' nutritional needs are met completely through breast milk (which is recommended by the American Academy of Family Physicians) or infant formula for the first several months of life. The time soon comes, however, when babies

IF YOU DON'T HAVE ONE . . .
You can't Save $$$!

Available at Prob's Pharmacy or The Bethel Citizen, Main St., Bethel are ready to graduate to "solid" foods.

How can you tell when your baby has reached this milestone? Most health care professionals advise starting solid foods between four and six months of age. Babies are often ready for solid food when they: hold up their heads when sitting; open up their mouths when someone offers them food; and are interested in food when others eat.

The first solid food should be single-grain baby cereal, fortified with iron. Mix one or two spoonfuls of cereal with enough breast milk or formula to make it look like thin gravy. The amount and thickness of the cereal can be gradually increased.

At first, the taste of solid food may come as an unpleasant surprise, and your baby may spit the cereal right out again. But don't be discouraged! Scoop the cereal from your baby's chin and try again. Lots of patience will help you give him or her a solid start.

A healthy start in life begins before birth with an understanding of the birth process for both the mom and her partner. The Bethel Area Health Center is offering childbirth education classes beginning July 13, at 6 p.m. The course runs for six weeks and is taught by certified childbirth educator, Cathy Sutton. To register, please call the Bethel Area Health Center at 824-2193.

PIZZA SALE TO BENEFIT ABUSED WOMEN

Modern Woodmen of America will sponsor a pizza sale to benefit the emergency shelter for victims of domestic violence operated by the Abused Women's Advocacy Project. Last year over 250 women and children from the tri-county area of Androscoggin, Oxford and Franklin counties stayed in the shelter located in Auburn.

These large, 14-inch pizzas will be assembled fresh on Saturday, June 17, and will be shrink-wrapped for freezing. Both cheese and pepperoni will be available at the affordable price of $4.85 (cheese) and $5.50 (pepperoni).

Orders must be placed by Thursday, June 8. Pizzas can be picked up on Saturday, June 17, from 9 a.m. to noon at the Park Avenue Methodist Church, Auburn.

The Abused Women's Advocacy Project has emergency and support services including a 24-hour hotline (1-800-559-2927), shelter, support groups, court advocacy, children's services and education groups for men who batter. Offices are located in Auburn, Lewiston, Norway, Farmington and Rumford.

News from

The White Mountain National Forest

Despite threatening skies, nearly 55 youngsters age 2 to 15 years old participated in a fun-filled day of fishing at Wildcat Pond on Saturday, June 3. The activities included a fishing clinic, a casting contest, and lots of fishing. Sponsors of the event included the Androscoggin/Evans Notch Ranger District, White Mountain National Forest; NH Department of Fish and Game; the Fur, Feather, and Fin Club; and Wildcat Mountain.

Lesley Rowse, U.S. Forest Service wildlife biologist, commented, "We were really pleased with this year's turnout and excited that so many kids caught so many fish. One boy even caught a three-pound brook trout on his first cast. I'd like to thank Wildcat Mountain for donating 10 free Gondola passes in celebration of National Fishing Week and Nancy Winturi and her second-grade class from the Ed Fenn School who made posters to publicize the event."

Kids had a choice of attending six learning stations, including fly tying, knot tying, fish anatomy, what fish eat, rigging your fishing line, and fishing ethics. David Gray (Gorham, N.H.) and Mario Partenope (Gorham, N.H.) won fishing rods and Justin Dorazio (Lancaster, N.H.) and Dustin Finson (Berlin, N.H.) won tackle boxes for their participation in the learning stations.

Scott Decker of New Hampshire Department of Fish & Game helped weigh the fish and members of the Gorham Fur, Feather and Fin Club showed children how to cook and clean their fish. The fish were really biting and all the kids and their families had a great day fishing and picnicking along the shores of Wildcat Mountain Pond.
